SUSPICION JUSTIFIED.

It Was Not a Mouse the Master Heard In the Kitchen.

The late Rev. Dr. Wightman, sitting one night later than usual engrossed in the profundities of a great tome, imagined he heard a sound in the kitchen inconsistent with the cautiousness of a mouse; so, taking his candle, he proceeded to investigate the cause. His foot being heard in the passage, the servant began with much noise to rake out the fire as if preparing for bed.

"Ye're up late tonight, Mary."

"I'm jist rakin' the fire, sir, and gaun to bed."

"That's right, Mary. I like timeous hours."

On his way back to the study he passed the coal cellar door and, turning the key, took it with him. The next morning at an early hour there was a rap at his bedroom door and a request for the key to get some coal.

"Ye're up too soon, Mary. Go back to your bed."

Half an hour later there was another knock and a similar request, in order to prepare for breakfast. "I don't want breakfast so soon, Mary. Go back to your bed."

In another half hour there was another knock, with an entreaty for the key, as it was washing day.

This was enough. He rose and handed out the key, saying, "Go and let the man out." As the preacher shrewdly suspected, Mary's sweetheart had been imprisoned all night in the coal cellar.—London Family Herald.

Old Scottish Words.

Here are a few quaint old Scottish words still used a good deal in East Aberdeenshire: "Mowse"—To say anything is nae mowse means it is uncanny or dangerous. "Connached"—Spilled; clean connached would mean utterly destroyed or rendered useless. "Blaud"—To blaud anything would mean to soil it. A child would be told, "Dinna blaud your clean pina." "Gardies" or "Gaurdies"—A child's forearm. The last is a very old expression, but we have heard it used. "Sic bonnie gardies he has" means the baby has plump arms.—Glasgow Herald.

A Straight Vote.

The secret of the ballot is sometimes too good to keep. "George," said the squire, "did you vote straight, as I told you?" "Sure, O! did, squire. It said on th' paper to put a X, but O! minded as how ye said 'vot straight,' and O! put an straight through un's name."—London Chronicle.

Violent delights have violent ends and in their triumph die like fire and powder, which as they kiss consume.—Shakespeare.

PERSONAL MAGNETISM.

A Great Asset In Business as Well as In Society.

There have been great advocates at the bar whose charming manner, like the presence in court of some of the world's famous beauties, would sway the jury and the judge as to danger and sometimes actually divert justice, says Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine. A gracious, genial presence, a charming personality, a refined, fascinating manner, are welcome where mere beauty is denied and where mere wealth is turned away. They will make a better impression than the best education or the highest attainments. An attractive personality, even without great ability, often advances one when great talent and special training will not.

There is always a premium upon a charming presence. Every business man likes to be surrounded by people of pleasing personality and winning manners. They are regarded as splendid assets.

What is it that often enables one person to walk right into a position and achieve without difficulty that which another, with perhaps greater ability, struggles in vain to accomplish? Everywhere a magnetic personality wins its way.

Young men and young women are constantly being surprised by offers of excellent positions which come to them because of qualities and characteristics which perhaps they have never thought much about—a fine manner, courtesy, cheerfulness and kindly, obliging, helpful dispositions.

ABSURD COSTUMES.

Outcome of a Curious Wager Made In England In 1806.

A wager was made in 1806 in the castle yard, York, England, between Thomas Hodgson and Samuel Whitehead as to which should succeed in assuming the most singular character. Umpires were selected whose duty it was to decide upon the comparative absurdity of the costumes in which the two men were to appear. On the appointed day Hodgson came before the umpires decorated with banknotes of various values, his coat and vest being entirely covered with them. Besides these he had a row of five guinea pieces down his back, a netted purse of gold around his head and a placard on his back bearing the legend, "John Bull."

Whitehead came on the scene dressed like a woman on one side, one half of his face painted and a silk stocking and slipper on one foot and leg. The other half of his face was blackened so as to resemble a negro. On the corresponding side of his body he wore a gaudy long tailed linen coat, his leg on that side being incased in half a pair of leather breeches and a boot with a spur. He wore a wig of sky blue braided down his back and tied with yellow, red and orange colored ribbons.

One would naturally fancy that he presented the most singular and ludicrous appearance, but the umpires must have thought differently, as they awarded the stakes, some £20, to Hodgson.—London Tatler.

Mild Result.

The courtroom was crowded. A wife was seeking divorce on the grounds of extreme cruelty and abusive treatment. Guns, axes, rolling pins and stinging invectives seemed to have played a prominent part in the plaintiff's married life.

The husband was on the stand undergoing a grueling cross examination. The examining attorney said: "You have testified that your wife on one occasion threw cayenne pepper in your face. Now, sir, kindly tell us what you did on that occasion."

The witness hesitated and looked confused. Every one expected that he was about to confess to some shocking act of cruelty. But their hopes were shattered when he finally blurted out: "I sneezed!"—Everybody's.

How He Remembered.

A diffident young Roseville man went to a party. If you are diffident yourself and know how hard it is to remember names when you meet a crowd of strange and lovely ladies you will be able to understand why it was that the young man's dance card read as follows:

1. Twostep—Heien.
2. Waltz—Harry's friend.
3. Twostep—Tall girl.
4. Waltz—Violets.
5. Twostep—Sweet eyes.
6. Waltz—Fluffy hair.
7. Twostep—Little olive.
8. Waltz—Beauty spot.
9. Twostep—Pink ribbons.
10. Waltz—Heien.

Courting a Belle.

"Would it be any harm to deceive her about my age?" inquired the elderly millionaire.

"Probably not."

"I'm sixty. How would it do to confess to fifty?"

"I think your chances would be better with her if you claimed seventy-five."—Kansas City Journal.

Marvelous Discoveries

mark the wonderful progress of the age. Air flights on heavy machines, telegrams without wires, terrible war inventions to kill men, and that wonder of wonders, Dr. Klug's New Discovery, to save life when threatened by colds, cough, lagrippe, asthma, croup, bronchitis, hemorrhages, hay fever and whooping cough or lung trouble. For all bronchial affections it has no equal. It relieves instantly. It is the surest cure. Jas. M. Black, of Asheville, N. C., R. R. No. 4, writes it cured him of an obstinate cough after all other remedies had failed. 50c and $1.00, trial bottle free, guaranteed by Fort Pierce Drug Co.

The Unknown World.

Notwithstanding the rapid advance of exploration in various parts of the globe it is estimated that about 20,000,000 square miles of the earth's surface remain yet unexplored. The largest unexplored area is in Africa, 6,500,000 miles, but even North America contains 1,500,000 square miles of virgin territory. Most persons will be surprised to learn that there is three times as much land awaiting the foot of the pioneer in North America as in South America.—Chicago Tribune.

One Glean of Joy.

Johnny had two presents at the same time—one a diary, which is kept very carefully, and the other a pea shooting popgun, which he fires indiscriminately on all occasions. One day his mother found the following terse record in his diary: "Mondy cold and sloppy. Toosdy cold and sloppy. Wensdy cold and sloppy shot granma."—Youth's Companion.

In Legal Terms.

She (after a tiff)—You will admit you were wrong?

He (a young lawyer)—No, but I'll admit that an unintentional error might have unknowingly crept into my assertion.

Conservation of Nature's Resources

Applies as well to our physical state as to material things. C. J. Budlong, Washington, R. I. realized his condition and took warning before it was too late. He says: "I suffered severely from kidney trouble, the disease being hereditary in our family. I have taken four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy, and now consider myself thoroughly cured. This should be a warning to all not to neglect taking Foley's Kidney Remedy until it is too late." For sale at the St. Lucie Drug Co.

The Falkland Islands.

The Falkland Islands are among the least known and most out of the way corners of the widely scattered British empire. They form a sort of British suburb of the south pole, some 500 miles from the antarctic end of America, Cape Horn. A former governor of the Falkland islands, the late Sir William Robinson, used to say that he would have committed suicide while there if he could have found a tree tall enough to hang himself on.—London Standard.

Very Unconventional.

"Is this proposal the result of a bet or a joke or a dare?" asked the girl.

"No; I ask you to marry me because I love you."

"It is unusual; but, after all, the unusual is the proper caper nowadays. I accept you, Algernon."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Similarity.

"My husband is like a rooster in one respect."

"Indeed?"

"Yes; when he gets up early he crows over it."—Judge.
